

EVERYDAY WISDOM

Connecting South Carolina communities with trusted maternal health education and support.

CHURCHES | SALONS | RESTAURANTS | STORES | GYMS | BARBERSHOPS

1 What is #NotUsSC?

#NotUsSC is a South Carolina nonprofit working to improve maternal health through free, community-based education and outreach.

2 What is the Everyday Wisdom Initiative?

The Everyday Wisdom Initiative provides free maternal health education materials in trusted community spaces across South Carolina.

3 Why does maternal health matter?

Black women in SC are more likely to die from pregnancy than any other group.

Most deaths are preventable with the right care in the right time.

Learning the warning signs and knowing when to seek care can save lives.

Learn more at notussc.org.

Frequently Asked Questions

4 Why are these materials in my church, business, or community space?

We offer free brochures, posters, palm cards, flyers, and booklets on pregnancy, postpartum health, warning signs, mental health, family support, and advocacy.

5 What kinds of materials do you have?

We offer free brochures, posters, palm cards, flyers, and booklets on pregnancy, postpartum health, warning signs, mental health, family support, and advocacy.

6 Who are these materials for?

Our resources are designed for Black mothers and birthing people, their families, support networks, and the broader community.

7 Do I need medical training to participate?

No. Simply display the materials and encourage others to take them. No medical knowledge or training is required.

8 What can I do to support maternal health?

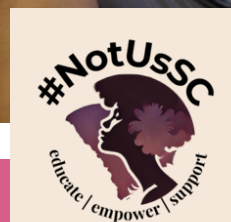

Learn the warning signs, share trusted information, support pregnant and postpartum families, and encourage people to seek care when something doesn't seem right.

10 How can my organization participate?

Scan the QR Code below or email us at info@notussc.org.

9 How much does it cost?

Nothing. All materials are provided free of charge.

To learn more email us at info@notussc.org.